Fascists Launch Three Point Drive Against Madrid Involving Million Men

By The Associated Press

[illegible] United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers said today he was using his good offices to obtain the release of three American newspaper correspondents reported detained by Spanish insurgents at Carceres.

The three were said to be John T. Whitaker of the New York Herald Tribune and Floyd Gibbons and H. R. Knickerbocker of [illegible] [illegible] Service and International News Service.

Reports reaching the frontier stated the three were arrested on charges of failing to obtain military permits from the Burgos provisional junta.

Fascists Launch Drive

Meanwhile Fascist forces with an estimated potential strength of a million men launched a three-pointed drive on Madrid and locked with desperate government militiamen in one of the fiercest battles of the nine weeks civil war on the Toledo front.

Meanwhile in Toledo Alcazar 1,700 men, women and children huddled over the momentary threat of massed death. Refusing to surrender they were told by government commanders the ancient fortress would be blown to bits at any moment from underground mines. Two months of shell fire has failed to drive them from the crumbling citadel.

Last Minute Delay

A last minute delay in the explosion was ordered this morning to give the Fascists a final chance to surrender and to put the finishing touches on the mines but the mayor of Toledo said the building might be blown up soon.

Personally led by Gen. Francisco Franco, the rebel commander in chief, the Fascist forces advancing on Toledo and Madrid engaged in a bloody battle with government militiamen only a few miles from Toledo itself.

A Fascist broadcast from Jerez De La Frontera, a propaganda source, said 1,000 militiamen had been killed before Toledo and that the city was about to fall to the insurgents. Government advices did not bear this out but thousands of men were rushed to Toledo to reinforce the defenders.

Other Drives Started

From the northeast, the north and the northwest other Fascist columns were pointed toward Madrid where the government announced foreign [illegible] pilots were being recruited to start a great aerial offensive with a huge fleet of new bombing and fighting planes.

The Fascists from Burgos claimed victories in bayonet fighting near the northern city of Oviedo and an insurgent air squadron was reported to have bombed a gun factory in the same province.

French demands for apologies and indemnities from Spanish Fascists for the execution of a Frenchman in Spanish Morocco went unanswered but at Saint Jean De Luz, France, the United States ambassador Claude G. Bowers, said he was attempting to obtain the release of three American newspaper correspondents reported to be held by insurgents at Carceres.

Insurgent leaders in the north indicated they favored a veteran military leader, Gen. Martinez Anido, for dictator of Spain.

Exiled Sovereign Reaches Bedside of Son Alfonso

Prince Who Renounced Crown To Wed Commoner Bleeds Constantly from Wound

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Into the troubled world of her ailing son Alfonso, Count of Covadonga, sailed the queen of trouble, Victoria Eugenie of Spain today.

With her from their exile in France came her eldest daughter Infanta Beatriz aboard the Conte De Savoia.

In the medical center here Alfonso, 29 years old, was [illegible] comfortably recovering from his 11th blood transfusion in the three weeks he has been under treatment there for haemophilia, an illness that results in constant bleeding from the slightest kind of cuts. The present condition started from the lancing of a boil.

Wife Wants Alimony

And in the law courts his attorneys opposed the latest development in Alfonso's tangled marital affairs—demand of his wife, Edelmira De Bourbon, that the prince be ordered to start alimony payment before his mother can take him out of the country and the reach of its laws. The count is suing for annulment of his marriage to the Cuban commoner for whom he renounced his rights to the Spanish throne his father abandoned in 1931.

Problems and trouble have been more or less constant companions of the English princess on whose wedding day in May, 1906, 24 were killed and 110 wounded by a bomb thrown in a bouquet of flowers at their stately procession from the church of San Geronimo El Real in Madrid.

Blood that splashed her wedding gown then seemed almost the fatal omen of tragedies to follow — bleeding to death of her youngest son Don Gonzalo in Switzerland in 1934 after a slight automobile

Today at 10 the members came together for the second New Year's service of prayers and a sermon, "The Meaning of Religion," read by Mr. Kleinmaier.

The temple room was decorated with autumn flowers for the festival celebration.

Rosh Hashanah has become the judgment day of the Jewish year, the day upon which all people of the world pass in review before their Creator for judgment.

Celebration of Yom Kippur, the most solemn occasion in the Jewish year, will begin at sundown Friday, Sept. 25.

Five Indictments Listed In Grand Jury Report

Six Persons Held for Trial Including McElroy Brothers, Indicted on Manslaughter Charge

[illegible] Young.

[illegible] the jury [illegible] today [illegible] persons were questioned [illegible] not indicted and [illegible] the next jury session [illegible].

A joint indictment charging [illegible] was returned against William [illegible] McElroy, 22, of 20th [illegible] street and Don McElroy, 20, [illegible] Bennett street, brothers, [illegible] engaging in an altercation [illegible] Aug. [illegible] which resulted in the death of Arthur W. Daniels, 22, of 565 [illegible] street. Police charge the fight grew out of the refusal of Miss Lucy Saxton [illegible] to give William McElroy a date in a West Center street cafe. She was accompanied by Daniels when the quarrel started, police said.

Layman Indicted

[illegible] Layman [illegible] was indicted on a charge of shooting with intent to wound, a charge growing out of the shooting of his wife last week in what was described to police as a domestic quarrel. Authorities said Layman confessed to firing three shots into his wife's body but told them he did not intend to hit her. She is recovering from the wounds at her home on Chicago avenue.

Robert McGinnis, 22, of Toledo, was indicted on a charge of attempting to rape a seven-year-old girl while he was a guest at an [illegible] home here in June. He pleaded guilty when arraigned in municipal court.

Others indicted were Harry R. Brady, two counts of abandoning his wife who was about to become a mother and non-support of a pregnant woman, and Gordon Southwick, charged with issuing checks at the Marion County bank in the amount of $201.50 when he did not have funds.

Charges Ignored

Those against whom indictments were not returned were Delbert Reid, 19, charged with auto theft and Joel Sluste, receiving stolen property in connection with an automobile case. Cases passed for the next grand jury were C. W. Porter, charged with manslaughter, Leo Savage, 29, cutting William Southers with intent to kill and William Southers, bound over on an affidavit to keep the peace filed by Savage.

It is expected that those indicted by the grand jury will be arraigned before Judge Young within a few days. The judge will dispose of cases of those who plead guilty to indictments and trials will be arranged for those who enter not guilty pleas. The grand jury was to inspect the county jail this afternoon.

A list of the persons serving on the jury follows: W. F. Kniffin of LaRue, Charles Mapes of 254 South State street, Thomas Murphey of Morral, Iva D. Probst of 195 South Seffner avenue, Helen Schell of Vernon Heights boulevard, Martha Hiller of 505 Davids [illegible] [illegible] Wood street.

DWELLING ENTERED AND PURSE STOLEN

A purse containing $15 was taken from the home of Mrs. Harriet Tweedle of 210 West Pleasant street sometime before 10 o'clock last night according to a report to police. Entrance was apparently gained by breaking the screen on a rear door, officers who investigated said.

Mrs. Tweedle had been visiting at a neighbor's when she returned home at 10 o'clock and discovered the theft. The empty purse was later found discarded beneath a grape arbor at the rear of the residence.

PRESIDENT SAYS U. S. CONFIDENT

Refers to Returning Prosperity Indicating Improved Support for Welfare Drives

POINTS TO OBLIGATION

Mobilization for Human Needs Told Charity Spirit Will Be Increased

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—President Roosevelt told an [illegible] meeting of the mobilization for human needs today the national income is now double what was at the low point of the depression and that confidence has returned to the great mass of our people.

Several times he referred to returning prosperity and on that basis built an argument that private relief organizations should expect a larger measure of private aid and that every individual has a greater obligation to aid in the relief of distress in his or her own community.

From the south portico of the White House Mr. Roosevelt spoke to mobilization delegates gathered on the lawn. The organization seeks support for those social services financed by private funds rather than by taxes.

Appeals To All

Through [illegible] the President told his audience: "I appeal to every man, woman and child in the United States for a revival throughout the length and breadth of the land of the spirit of charity.

"In renewal of the spirit of charity would be a better way of putting it—for I am very proud of the support of the country's welfare services of all kinds in the last seven years."

Turning to general economic conditions Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"Since the low point of the depression great and substantial progress has been made. The national income will soon be double what it was then.

"Nearly six million more men and women are now at work in private industry. Three million others are engaged in useful work provided or assisted by government. Factory payrolls the first quarter of this year were more than $70,000,000 greater each week than they were in the first quarter of 1933.

"Systematic and successful efforts to raise the buying power of wage earners and farmers have increased the business of merchants and brought orders to manufacturers. Confidence has returned to the great mass of our people, confidence on the part of all except a small minority who seek to profit from the preaching of fear."

At the outset the chief executive said that clear evidences of returning prosperity meant that private social services had a right to expect greater assistance.

He expressed resentment at what he termed "supercilious and uncharitable sneers" at those in need and those seeking to help the needy. But the sneers, he said, come only "from a small element among us."

WOMAN RECALLS START OF O.S.U. 63 YEARS AGO

Mud Roads and No Sidewalks Made Rubber Boots Necessary for Coeds.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—While Ohio State university faculty members, too busy to note the day officially, prepared for the largest freshman class in history, a silvery-haired woman reminisced just a bit today over the 63 years since she enrolled in the institution's first class at the age of 14.

Miss Harriett N. Townshend, one of two survivors who enrolled Sept. 17, 1872, the day Ohio State, then known as the agricultural and mechanical college, opened [illegible] doors, recalled:

"We wore rubber boots [illegible] because there [illegible] street, (now [illegible]) [illegible] road and there weren't more than six houses between Goodale street, the corporation limit (quite downtown now) and what is now Fifteenth avenue."

There were seven faculty members and "each one taught several subjects." Her father, Dr. Norton S. Townshend, was appointed by Gov. Rutherford B. Hayes to the first board of [illegible] and for many years [illegible] the school of agriculture.

More Than 200 Boy Scouts and Women Will Aid in Campaign for School Children

Friday from 8:45 a. m. until noon the residential districts of Marion will be thoroughly scoured for clothing with which to outfit Marion's [illegible] school children.

One hundred and fifty Boy Scouts, trucks donated by Marion business firms and approximately 50 women from the King's Daughters, the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs and the Parent-Teacher associations are prepared for the drive.

Boy Scouts from the public and parochial schools and the trucks will start out at 8:45 and by noon it is expected that every section of the city will have been canvassed.

Clothing given need not be children's clothing. In fact it is anticipated that there will be many contributions of men's and women's wear that can be remodeled for children by the women at the WPA sewing center to whom it will be given immediately after the drive.

Children's clothing that is received will be turned over to Miss Grace Colvin, visiting teacher in the city schools, for immediate disposal to children in public and parochial schools.

Housewives have been asked to have the clothing collected and on the porch, ready for the Boy Scouts when they ring the doorbells Friday morning. The city has been divided into sections for the canvass, with each truck manned by Scouts and additional Scouts making the house-to-house calls.

All the clothing will be taken to the Central fire station for sorting by the volunteer women, and by late afternoon it is expected that the contributions will have been divided into the children's wear that can be used immediately and the adult clothing that will go to the sewing center.

Money left at the tellers' windows of the banks and at the school office will be placed in the shoe fund and used as it is needed among approximately 1,000 children who cannot attend school this winter unless some provision is made to provide them with shoes.

Promptness in making contributions is urged. Contributions will be received until noon Saturday at the administration building and until 1 p. m. at the banks. Next week the school office will be open through Friday from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and the banks will remain open until 2 p. m. Saturday early closing hours will be observed.

Aged Farmer Admits Attack After Authorities Tell Him of Wife's Death

FACES CHARGE OF MURDER

Says Wife Hit Him With Cane and He Struck Her With Club To Get Even

Charles Warwick, 80-year-old retired [illegible] county farmer, confessed [illegible] [illegible] yesterday afternoon that he attacked his [illegible] wife, Laura Eva Warwick, and inflicted wounds which caused her death yesterday [illegible] hospital.

He said he assaulted her with a piece of a pitch fork handle to get revenge for blows she allegedly struck him with a cane in a quarrel Monday and for other [illegible].

Warwick was charged with first degree murder this morning in an affidavit signed by Sheriff Fred E. Miller. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in municipal court and was committed to the county jail without bail to be held for a preliminary hearing Sept. 24.

Warwick appeared at the arraignment this morning without an attorney, not having retained one up to that time. When the murder charge was read to him Judge William R. Martin asked him if he understood the charge. "I'm not pleading guilty," he answered.

Prosecutor Michel then asked him if he wanted to waive a preliminary hearing in the municipal court and permit the case to be bound over to the grand jury for investigation. Warwick said he would consent to that procedure but Judge Martin said he would not accept the waiver of hearing until Warwick had been given opportunity to talk to an attorney. He explained he would set the hearing date far enough ahead so that Warwick could obtain a lawyer and decide on what course to follow.

Later today William K. Davis

was employed by Warwick as attorney.

The municipal courtroom was almost empty, the arraignment having been set suddenly without advance notice.

Warwick confessed suddenly about 5 p. m. yesterday to Prosecutor Michel after he had denied in more than two hours of questioning at the city police station any blame in connection with his wife's fatal injuries.

Breaks at Death News

Authorities generally agreed that news that his wife had died caused him to break and drop the defiant attitude he had held throughout the previous questioning. He confessed within 15 minutes of the time Prosecutor Michel told him of Mrs. Warwick's death and immediately afterward gave a formal written confession in answer to the prosecutor's questions.

The domestic tragedy, reenacted for authorities in Warwick's confession and his wife's death-bed statement, broke up a modest country home two miles northeast of Claridon near the Morrow county line where the couple had spent all of their married life.

They lived in virtual seclusion on the 24-acre farm that had been their home since 1900. Warwick seldom left the farm and his wife had not been away from the home for several years, to the knowledge of relatives.

Parents of four grown children, they lived in modest circumstances in their seven-room farm home without serious domestic differences until in recent years they occasionally quarreled, authorities were told. They had lived alone for the last four years, since the last of their four children left the farm.

The specific quarrel that led directly to yesterday's fatal attack on Mrs. Warwick centered around several packages of flower seed, authorities learned.

The quarrel began Monday when Mrs. Warwick accused her husband of having burned some of the seed which she was saving for her flower gardens. He said he denied her charge but she insisted he had taken them and during the argument that followed she struck him over the head with her cane. He said the argument was resumed Tuesday and that he made up his mind to "get even."

Waits to "Get Even"

He said in his written confession he obtained a piece of fork handle, placed it on the rear porch and waited for an opportunity to use it. "The opportunity came yesterday morning when his wife was

STOCKS REGAIN THEIR BALANCE

Aircrafts, Motors, Steels and Utilities Take Part in Recovery Move

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—The contest in today's stock market was one of endurance rather than speed.

Business and industrial news was on the constructive side generally and public was again a minor market fa[illegible]r.

Wright Aeronautical duplicated its performance of yesterday by jumping several points on 10-share dealings. Douglas, Curtiss-Wright A, United Aircraft and Boeing showed lesser improvement.

Others well out in front included Ludlum Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Western Union, International Paper & Power preferred, Pressed Steel Car preferred, Westinghouse, Consolidated Oil, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Armour preferred and Corn Products.

A shade either way were American Telephone, North American, American Water Works, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, General Electric, New York Central and Goodyear.

Bonds and commodities were mixed. Call money renewed at 1 per cent.

Sentiment was fairly cheerful in the boardrooms before the start of trading as business and industrial news continued on the bright side.

Stocks of companies catering to rural sections were studied in view of signs pointing to a further rise in farm spending power.

Sterling at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions was up ¼ of a cent at $5.06 and the French franc was up 1-16 of a cent, improved at 6.58 7-16 cents.

"The public debt is too big, but it has always been too big," he said. "The government was liberal with funds to keep the railroads, banks, cities and states from bankruptcy," he declared.

The congressman praised the CCC camps for having taken child tramps off the streets and putting them to work. National records prior to 1932 were compared with records of today, particularly the large number of mortgage foreclosures prior to 1932.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT LEVIES NEGLECTED

Ohioans Pay Real Estate and Utility Taxes Promptly but Let Others Lag

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—Ohioans were more prompt in paying their real estate and public utility property taxes during the first half of this year, but they neglected special assessment levies and standing delinquencies more than in previous years.

The tax commission reported today a survey of 88 of the 88 counties showed that collections of current general taxes during the first six months exceeded those of the first half of 1935 by $4,455,531, with an increase of $[illegible] in the [illegible] levies. Collections in the first half of 1936 totaled $65,916,695 as compared with $59,[illegible] in 1935.

The amount of taxes charged which the counties failed to collect in the first half of 1936 was 13.91 per cent, as compared with 15.54 per cent in the corresponding period of 1935, or a decrease of [illegible] in delinquencies.

Asserting that there has been a shift in the source of general tax collections, the commission said that while the current collections of the current levy are better, the amount coming from former year delinquency is less.

Of the taxes owed for former years, only $16,741,711 has been collected this year as contrasted with $19,567,9[illegible] in the first six months of last year.

The collection of special assessments was termed "almost hopeless" by the commission.

BOMB RIPS LABOR OFFICE IN CLEVELAND

Explosive Placed in Boiler Room Results in Damage Estimated at $4,000.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17—A bomb exploded late last night in the lower part of the three-story building housing the Cleveland Federation of Labor headquarters, but a small causing damage estimated by federation officials at $4,000.

Mrs. Nan Galvin, 56-year-old custodian, was alone in the building. She was in the first floor office of Albert Dalton, president of the federation, when she heard the explosion.

"I thought a car had hit the side of the building," she said. "I pounced [illegible] it. I was unable to see what had happened and then I saw smoke coming from a basement window."

Detective Roy Heisley said the bomb was of black powder and that the downward fire doors of the boiler indicated it had been placed inside.

The blast came little more than an hour after conclusion of meetings of the federation, the Bill Posters union local 40 and the Carpenters union local 2155.

The hall also is used as headquarters of the Cleveland Building Trades council.

MUSGRAVE HARBOR, Nfld., Sept. 17—The rescue party led by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker reached here today after a stormy 17-hour boat trip from Harbor Grace to help Harry Richman and Dick Merrill put their trans-Atlantic monoplane back into the air.

Dug out of the bog in which Richman and Merrill landed on their return trans-ocean flight, the airplane Lady Peace was ready to be wheeled to the hard surface of a nearby beach.

Aided by friendly inhabitants Merrill freed the big plane last night. The veteran pilot found the ship only slightly damaged, including a broken propeller.

The fliers denied they had quarreled before they were forced down by fuel shortage.

LEGION FIGHTS GAINS OF WAR

Commander Says Elimination of Profits Would Insure World Peace

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17.— Ray Murphy, national commander, predicted upon his arrival yesterday for the 18th annual convention of the American Legion the convention would [illegible] effective enactment of federal legislation deprofiting war.

"When the country takes the profit out of war," he said, "one of the greatest sources of propaganda for war will cease."

Such legislation, he said, is true, was part of a three-point peace program proposed by the Legion.

Defense Neutrality

He described two of these as adequate national defense and strict neutrality— [illegible] filled through congressional action.

Murphy added:

"We of the legion [illegible] war. We want none of [illegible] content that it will [illegible] the business of every citizen and every [illegible] our [illegible] this issue before the American people [illegible]

Murphy [illegible]

[illegible] the Legion [illegible] against every [illegible] the Legion [illegible] tion.

[illegible] of the [illegible] will be taboo [illegible] on floor [illegible] He asserted the Legion [illegible] favorably [illegible] country [illegible]

Foreign Leaders [illegible]

[illegible] adjutant [illegible] possibly the greatest [illegible] American Legion [illegible]

[illegible] will be Vice Admiral [illegible] at the Legion [illegible] Moore, air [illegible] and [illegible] of baseball and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

[illegible] the diplomatic [illegible] will [illegible] Josephus Daniels, American ambassador to Mexico and war time secretary of the navy, and Alvin M. Owsley, U. S. minister to the Irish Free State.

The list of governors whose acceptances were announced today included Bibb Graves of Alabama, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, R. L. Cochran of Nebraska, Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, Charles H. Martin of Oregon, George H. Earle of Pennsylvania, Olin D. Johnston of South Dakota and Herman G. Kump of West Virginia.

The legion convention will be asked to make a concerted movement for legislation requiring registration of firearms to separate the crook from his gun.

Another recommendation to go before the convention will propose a campaign to demonstrate the dual public value of voluntary finger printing as a deterrent to crime and insurance against loss of identity.

These recommendations are included in the annual report of the legion's law and order committee headed by George R. Howitt of Milwaukee, Wis.

"Your committee feels that as yet the time is not opportune to attempt the passage of any legislation making finger print registration compulsory for all citizens," the committee said.

The law and order committee report, in which Howitt was assisted by [illegible] state officials, judges, [illegible] police chiefs, sheriffs and criminologists who also are committee members, pointed out that regulation of firearms is fraught with complication.

"Some of the proposals for regulation of firearms have been so ill advised that they would have the effect of disarming the honest law abiding citizens and sportsmen while failing to reach the crook," the committee said.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood when due to functional kidney disorders may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Board of Elections Issues Instructions for Voters Without Credentials for Voting

Unregistered voters who expect to cast ballots in the November election are urged by officials of the county board of elections to register at the board's headquarters on East Center street before Oct. 5, the deadline.

Officials said many residents are under the impression that the deadline for registering expired [illegible] the precinct [illegible] to correct this [illegible]. They explain and emphasize that those entitled to register have until Oct. 5 to register. There have been approximately 160 registrations since the spring primary and 80 transfers from one precinct to another. Registration since the primary election has been unusually light, officials pointed out, and [illegible] workers believe this is due to a misunderstanding on the part of voters.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Bunions

Normally the joints of the foot, as well as other joints of the body, are structures contained within small sacs. The space is filled with synovial fluid which lubricates the joint. The sac itself is called the bursa.

It is not uncommon for the tissues forming the bursa to become inflamed. Pressure or irritation caused by wearing improperly fitted shoes or the lack of foot hygiene may lead to bursitis, the technical name for inflammation of the sac. The overlying skin becomes thickened and the big toe is forced inward. This produces the deformity called a bunion.

Contrary to the popular idea, a bunion, or hallux valgus as it is known medically, is not always the result of wearing an improperly fitted shoe. The defect may be traced to some constitutional disorder such as arthritis, gout, diabetes or rheumatism.

Occasionally the condition appears without any such history as I have suggested. In such cases it is believed by some of the authorities to be inherited. I am not greatly impressed by this theory. In most instances certainly it will be found that a severe blow or other injury, the wearing of tight shoes or the lack of foot hygiene is responsible for the trouble.

If the defect is recognized in its early stages cure can be accomplished by massage, the wearing of proper shoes, foot exercises and the use of special foot baths. In most instances, unfortunately, the condition is neglected, the physician not being consulted until severe damage has been done the afflicted joint. Then complete cure can be expected only as the result of a minor surgical operation.

Many persons resort to the use of bunion plasters. Sometimes these are beneficial and may aid a lot in preventing further irritation. Their value lies in the fact that they remove pressure from the sore or inflamed joint.

But such palliative treatment is unlikely to effect a cure. Unless the sufferer stops wearing tight and pointed shoes and gives greater care to the hygiene of his feet it is probable he will never overcome the affliction.

Hardin and Wyandot counties are among the 81 Ohio counties in which the PWA is participating in 330 school projects costing $15,870,851, according to a report received by D. T. Mills, Marion county school superintendent, from PWA headquarters.

Of the total costs of the projects the federal government is contributing 42 per cent or $6,709,069 in outright grants and in loaning an additional $1,025,500.

Four building projects in Hardin county have received $104,829 in outright grants while the estimated cost is $232,954, the report states. The four projects will provide 20 classrooms accommodating 800 students.

Three projects in Wyandot county estimated to cost $143,000 have received outright grants of $64,35[illegible] and will provide 10 classrooms accommodating 400 students, according to the report.

FOUNDING OF WAYNESVILLE

Waynesville in Warren county must be listed with the older municipalities of Ohio. It was 15 years old when Columbus was established to be the capital of the state.

From the first a center of population by members of the Friends religious body, Waynesville was laid out in February, 1796, by Samuel Highway, an immigrant from England, and Dr. Evan Banes—presumably a Welshman.

Highway established his home in the wilds where he would not be molested and would have religious brethren of his faith as neighbors.

He cut a road through from this settlement to Columbia, now a part of Cincinnati, employing two wagoners and four woodsmen to cut away the trees.

Business Men Want Dispute Settled

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE Wash Sept 17— Business men asked immediate action last night of the Seattle Central Labor council toward ending a news room strike on the Post Intelligencer the management of which announced any plans for abandonment of the plant have been held in abeyance at the request of business interests

The labor council organized labor's governing body here has designated the Hearst owned newspaper as unfair

A hearing on the Guild's demand for reinstatement of the two employes continued today before the national labor realtions board

Associate Publisher Charles B Lindeman announced abeyance of any plans to abandon the newspaper plant

At the invitation of a group of business men Lindeman said I was called down to the Chamber of Commerce at 9 o clock yesterday morning and this group asked that we defer action on the permanent closing of the Post Intelligencer for a short time that they hoped to be able to bring the conservative organized labor elements to the realization that it would be a terrific blow to the community if the Post Intelligencer was forced to suspend permanently

They were anxious over the loss of the payroll and the effect the bad name it would give the city and that new industries would fear to come here

We have decided to defer action for a brief period

The management has insisted no attempt would be made to resume publication until the unfair designation was removed by the labor council

RAIN REVIVES PASTURES AND CROPS IN SOUTHWEST

Also Helps Farmers Planting Wheat Rye and Other Grains and Replenishes Water Supply

By The Associated Press

Rain splashed wide areas of the southwest Wednesday washing away the summer drouth replenishing diminished water supplies and insuring farmers of badly needed feed crops for their stock

It was a million dollar rain for harrassed farmers of eastern Kansas western Missouri Oklahoma and parts of Texas said S D Flora federal meterologist at Topeka

Helps Planting

Aside from promoting growth of pasture and forage crops stunted by the prolonged drouth the rain provided moisture for planting of wheat rye and other small grains for winter pasture K D Blood Oklahoma federal crop statistician said

Cool weather accompanied the rain and swept high temperatures from a heat wave area

Dry farm ponds were brimming after the rain obviating the necessity of hauling stock water—a chore imposed on many farmers as the drouth dried up wells and ponds Creeks dusty for weeks were flowing over much of the area

Provides Water

Many Kansas cities facing acute water shortages as rivers shrank to trickles under the prolonged dry spell saw reservoirs filling and a dangerous situation averted

The Missouri weather bureau reported tomatoes garden crops blue grass and alfalfa were benefited by the rain

Flora said there is a prospect of another cutting of alfalfa in portions of Kansas

In western Kansas where rain was light many farmers planned to proceed with wheat planting Others said they would wait for additional precipitation

Frosts in North

Light to heavy frost was reported general in North Dakota Montana Wyoming Idaho the eastern sections of Washington and Oregon northern Minnesota and northwest ern Wisconsin More was forecast for tonight in most northern districts Little damage was observed

Sheridan Wyo recorded a temperature of 28 degrees Helena Mont 30 Williston No D 32 Devils Lake N D 34 Moorhead Minn 36

Reed said the Iowa corn which escaped the summer s heat was making a wonderful growth Average progress of the crop was noted in northern Illinois

MRS SARA A SCHNEIDER

I felt weak and worn out all the time had no energy and often felt dizzy with little spots dancing before my eyes I lost my appetite and my weight was going down gradually What I did eat seemed to do little good but turned sour in my stomach gas made me feel swollen and felt like there was a lump in my throat which I couldn t get rid of

I often read the high praise given Vendol so got some and this was the medicine I needed In a few days my bowels were moving regularly every day something I hadn t known for years When I had finished my third bottle of Vendol I felt like I had been thoroughly cleansed inside and all feeling of dizziness had disappeared my appetite was so good that I was eating hearty meals yet nothing disagreed with my stomach and all signs of gas sourness and heart burn were absent

I learned the secret of good health by reading what Vendol did for others so I hope this statement of my case will help many people to gain the same relief I did"

TO TRANSFER VOTERS FOR LEVY ELECTION

LaRue District Will [illegible] Ballots Outside Own Precincts

[illegible] in the [illegible] voters will be [illegible] from their own precincts polling place [illegible] in the LaRue school on a special real estate [illegible] Sept. 29. [illegible] Grand township, the eas precinct in Montgomery township, Hale township in Hardin county and precincts A and B of Dudley township in Hardin county will cast their ballots in the west precinct of Montgomery township, which votes in the LaRue town hall.

Electors in the LaRue school district will be asked to register their opinion on a proposed three-mill real estate tax levy designed to raise funds to defray school expenses. The levy would run two years. A similar proposal calling for two mills lost at the May primary. Officials of the Marion county board of elections said they understood the LaRue school district has money enough to run the school only until Oct. 1. They said the seriousness of the situation has been repeatedly stressed by school officials.

Voters who will transfer from their own precincts to the west precinct in Montgomery township number 135. All will receive cards from the board of elections instructing them where to vote. This provision is for the Sept. 29 special election only and they will vote as usual in their own precincts at the November election. Election board officials explained that there are so few voters in the precincts to be transferred that the expense of opening the polls there is unwarranted. The transfer of votes is legalized by section [illegible] of the general code of Ohio.

HURRICANE WARNINGS UP ON EAST COAST

Big Storm 400 Miles at Sea Moves Shoreward and May Strike Tonight

By The Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 17.—Northeast storm warnings flew today from Southport, N. C., to the Virginia Capes to herald the approach of a tropical hurricane.

The weather bureau here ordered warnings previously displayed from Beaufort to the Capes extended southward to Southport.

It estimated the huge disturbance carrying hurricane winds of 75 miles or more at its center was central about 400 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras, N. C., and moving northwest at 10 to 12 miles an hour.

Should it maintain its present course and speed the center of the storm would pass inland in the Cape Hatteras area about noon Friday.

Forerunning gales of 50 to 75 miles an hour might strike the coast tonight.

Gordon E. Dunn, weather bureau meteorologist, said late yesterday there was an even chance the storm might recurve northward and remain over the Atlantic.

American Red Cross officials mobilized their forces along the Carolina coast against a possible emergency. George Mac[illegible], disaster relief worker, went to Raleigh, N. C., to direct preparation.

The weather bureau here said all small craft on the coast north of Jacksonville should remain in port until the storm danger passes. It advised interests on North Carolina's coast to stand by for later advice.

The disturbance menaced the island of Bermuda yesterday but met increased resistance from a mass of cool air over the North Atlantic and was shunted more to the west.

Several vessels rode out hurricane winds as the storm moved along the lanes used by vessels bound from New York to South America and the Panama canal.

LANDON SAYS G. O. P. PLAN IS DEPENDABLE

Offers Permanent Program To Replace Stop Gap Policies of New Deal

By The Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. [illegible]—Gov. Alf M. Landon, preparing to carry his presidential campaign into the [illegible] middle west, said today that the Republican party offers a dependable permanent program to replace stop-gap policies of the administration.

"I am happy at the opportunity to speak at Des Moines, Minneapolis and Milwaukee and to visit with my fellow citizens of the agricultural middle west and lake states," the governor said.

"The present stop-gap policies of this administration must be replaced by a dependable permanent program that will give farming the equality it deserves. The Republican party has such a program.

"The [illegible] this administration [illegible] the markets of the American farmer must be changed. Drouth and flood have made imperative a proper federal [illegible] conservation program so far neglected by the present administration. A workable [illegible] land use program has become a necessity.

"I shall have something to say on these as well as other subjects."

The midwest campaign swing will be through Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois. He will speak Sept. 24 at Minneapolis and Sept. 26 at Milwaukee. Both will be broadcast, each scheduled for 9:30 Marion time.

Tomorrow at 3 p. m. Marion time the governor will address a national conference of young Republican leaders here. (The address will be carried over the National Broadcasting company's red network.)

LANDON WRITES TO MARION MAN

A letter written to Gov. Alfred M. Landon by Elmer Shaw, office secretary of the Marion Y. M. C. A., to congratulate him on his capture of the Republican nomination and on his [illegible] of the [illegible] has served to bring Shaw a valued addition to his collection of autographs.

Shaw received an answer from the Kansas governor the other day in the form of a personal letter bearing Landon's signature. Shaw says the letter will take its place in his collection, along with autographs of such men as Hoover, Taft, Coolidge, Will Rogers, Thomas A. Edison, Zane Grey, Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, and many others.

In his letter to Shaw, who also is a Republican candidate this fall seeking the office of county recorder, Landon commented:

"The swing of public sentiment is strongly in our favor and will grow stronger as the campaign progresses. I feel sure that by hard work and intelligent effort we can reach the objective we desire."

Psychological Effect.

If the Republican party candidates had drawn 65 per cent of the votes in the Maine election there would have been ample basis for a claim of an easy national Republican victory in November. Maine voters are a cross section of the national population. If 65 per cent of them had voted Republican in 1936 the result would have meant a more than 20 per cent switch from 1932, when only 52 per cent of them voted for Republican candidates. A 20 per cent increase in Republican strength throughout the country would be sufficient to return the party to power.

However, Maine Republicans didn't reach 65 per cent. Had it not been for the presence on the Democratic ticket of popular Gov. Brann, who was running for the U. S. senate, Republican strength probably would have been a little more than 60 per cent. As it was, Gov. Brann pulled down the Republican vote to approximately 65 per cent of the total. From a statistical point of view that does not give the Republican party any reason to believe it has the November presidential election in the bag. The party's managers would have been deeply surprised to make such a discovery. The campaign isn't over yet.

The psychological effect of the election result in Maine is favorable to Republicans. They made a clean sweep of all the offices, including the one sought by the exceedingly popular Gov. Brann. It was a significant comeback in a state which had been cultivated assiduously by the new dealers and watered plentifully with public money. They gave Maine every chance to bring forth fruit for their basket, but it brought forth, instead, its rock ribbed Republicanism—no morsel for any new dealer.

The country as a whole, which doesn't have much of a flair for statistics anyway, probably is about as deeply impressed by the Republican clean sweep in Maine as though it had been by a 65 per cent majority, instead of by one a good many percentage points below that.

The Unknown Quantity.

President Roosevelt's campaign plan at the moment seems to be one of letting the opposition take the initiative. The President's situation as the incumbent makes it desirable for him to meet attacks as they are made. Similarly, Gov. Landon's position as challenger demands that he be the aggressor in the debate on national principles and policies.

The arrangement suggests an important development which may have to be dealt with by the Democratic strategists in the near future. Gov. Landon has been clarifying point by point his philosophy of government. As the picture ultimately is completed it will become essential for the opposition to match it with one equally clear, unless its spokesmen—or rather its spokesman—can evade that ticklish responsibility.

President Roosevelt asks for reelection on a platform and a record of aggressive political motion. "Forward to anywhere!" is the new deal's slogan. With one hand Mr. Roosevelt is waving reassuringly to voters who have been disturbed by some of his hasty advances and retreats, as though to persuade them that they were the inevitable mistakes of his first term and will not be repeated if he gets a second term. Yet, with the other hand he continues to pen promises of more and better action in the future. His administration as a whole boasts that it has choked the "malefactors of great wealth" into submission and at the same time points with pride to what it has been able to do for them in the way of greater profits.

When and if President Roosevelt feels called upon to define exactly what he stands for that should be one of the really fateful moments of the campaign. If Gov. Landon, by continuing to lead the debate, can force his opponent to attempt such a declaration he will help both the country and Mr. Roosevelt to understand what is at stake in the general election of 1936.

Environment.

Announcement that Leon Trotsky has requested permission of the Spanish government to make his home in Barcelona adds one more interesting detail to the record of this wondering exile of the red revolution in Russia.

It may be assumed that a revolutionary theorist like Trotsky does not require an harmonious environment to make life tolerable. A country in the process of revolution, in other words, might be no more satisfying to the spirit of the complete revolutionist than a country at peace with itself. It might prove, in fact, most unsatisfactory.

During the years that Trotsky has been an exile from Russia he possibly has enjoyed himself despite visible evidence all around him of satisfaction with a state of being which he felt to be unjust and deadening to the progress of man. At least he has retained his zest for change, for overturn and for the revolution which Russian men of destiny do not permit him to preach any more at the scenes which he helped to revolutionize.

Such speculation leads nowhere, except possibly to the conclusion that if Spain permits Comrade Trotsky to come to live in Barcelona he would find himself among people of his own kind at least as long as the Spanish reds are able to maintain themselves. One wonders whether or not he would be as indefatigable in his interest in communism while living in the midst of its regimen as he has been of late years in an environment of capitalism. In a younger man such an experience might prove disastrous. It might even shake Trotsky.

On Constitution Day, 1936.

Hundreds of thousands of words of explanation and praise will be written and spoken in commemoration of Constitution day, 1936. They will mean what those who read them and hear them want them to mean.

On Constitution day, 1936, there exists in the United States an aggressive minority which, thrown off balance by the stress and excitement of recent events, is seeking to undermine popular belief in and support of the Constitution of the United States.

In this free country, members of this minority have a right to their opinion and to the expression of their opinion. They cannot harm the Constitution, they cannot warp its structure nor can they circumvent its fundamental guarantee unless they are able to obtain support.

The danger to the Constitution does not lie in the positive strength of its critics. It consists rather in the negative attitude of those Americans who, susceptible to political suggestion, may let themselves be talked out of the richest heritage of freedom existing anywhere on earth. The United States is still a young country, but 150 years of comfortable and safe existence have lulled many of its citizens into an apathetic and careless regard for the freedom which the founding fathers bought with their lives.

It is futile to talk about the Constitution to people who do not set a high price on their independence from government tyranny, who do not place a heavy value on free enterprise and who do not understand what it is about their government which makes it essentially different from a government of unlimited power. To the extent that Americans comprehend such things on Constitution day, 1936, is there assurance of continuance of a commemoration which marks the greatest progress men have made in their struggle to escape political tyranny.

Matters of Opinion.

Gen. John J. Pershing, 76, years old last Monday, bears the permanent rank of General of the Armies. The general has another title, an unofficial one. Commander of the National Admiration. When better looking generals are made, he still will be out ahead by a square chin, a pair of blue-gray eyes and a well trimmed whisker.

Commentators like to point out that while Europeans break each other's head over political differences Americans go to baseball games and yell at the umpire. Yet, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals pulled only 10,000 spectators for a doubleheader before the Rev. Fr. Coughlin drew more than 20,000 for a speech last week in the same ball park. Maybe it was the fault of the Dodgers.

French laboring men seem to be proving in their Socialist inspired strike that the worst enemy of the laboring man is the agitator who talks like a laboring man but thinks like a politician.

Landon Will Carry Maine by 60,000

Plurality Will Be 25,000 Greater Than That Given Hoover in 1932, Lawrence Predicts.

Today's dispatch was written by David Lawrence after spending all of election day in Bangor and all night at the office of the Bangor News, examining election returns from all parts of the state of Maine, after which he visited Portland and checked upon the results of the voting there and the reasons ascribed for it by well-informed leaders of both parties.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 17—Gov. Landon will carry the electoral vote of the state of Maine over President Roosevelt by between 60,000 and 70,000 in November. This is at least 15,000 more than the biggest vote cast for anybody in this week's election, in which the Republicans, by a clean sweep won the governorship, a United States senatorship, and all three memberships which this state has in the house of representatives.

At 60,000 this means that Mr. Landon is nearly 25,000 stronger than was Mr. Hoover when he carried Maine four years ago.

Democrats told me this privately, and, of course, Republicans take it for granted after studying the trends in the Monday election throughout the state.

I had an excellent opportunity, through the courtesy of the Bangor News, to get an insight into the meaning of the election returns. There were gathered at the office in Bangor several Republicans and Democrats, party workers and local candidates. And be it said in commendation of these Maine folks in politics, they certainly know every nook and corner in the state. As the returns came from each important precinct, we compared the votes with the same districts two years ago, when Gov. Brann, Democrat, carried the state by about 27,000, and Fred Hale squeezed through on the Republican ticket for the United States senate by less than 2,000.

* * *

It was interesting and significant to note the way districts which were Democratic two years ago turned around this time, but I was curious to learn, and nobody was able to explain, why in so many places Gov. Brann's vote of two years ago dropped off and was not correspondingly added to the totals of Senator White, his Republican opponent.

Maybe there are Jeffersonian Democrats in Maine who are themselves refraining from going to the polls, feeling that they do not like to vote the Republican ticket, but, at the same time, do not wish to aid the new deal. The stay-at-home vote was not at all on the Republican side. For the Republicans increased their vote materially almost everywhere. Indeed, there was a total of about 310,000 ballots cast in Monday's election, which is an increase of about 15,000 over the presidential election of November, 1932, and an increase of 30,000 over the gubernatorial and senatorial election of September, 1934. Republican organizations got out their party followers, something that may also make a vital difference in other states. Organization work certainly counted in Maine in getting people to the polls.

Now, as for general impressions and significance, I am convinced that, while "as Maine goes so goes the nation" is a valuable piece of advertising for the state of Maine, the election of Monday does not necessarily mean that President Roosevelt will be defeated this autumn.

I say this because the tide of Republicanism must inevitably run high in Maine, and, while the Republicans have every reason to be encouraged, all they can really feel certain about is that the 1936 election is a good horse race and may be decided by 25 or 30 electoral votes either way. Maine's vote, on the other hand, certainly does not indicate a landslide for Mr. Roosevelt, for the simple reason that Republicans are being Republicans again and are forgetting the causes that drove them away from Mr. Hoover in 1932. These Republicans, incidentally, are fighting mad. Mr. Roosevelt is responsible for this. He, and not Mr. Landon's affirmative strength, is drawing the Republicans together in a common cause against the man that so many of them have persuaded themselves to believe wants to do with America what Hitler and Mussolini have done with Europe and Democracies.

* * *

The truth is the vote of Maine, insofar as national issues played any part, was the beginning of a party protest on principle against the new deal extravagance and centralization of power. The protest will roll up more and more votes in Maine when November comes.

The entry of Mr. Landon into the state at the last moment was of doubtful value. Both before and after some of the Republican leaders saw the Monday election returns, they privately expressed doubt as to the wisdom of Mr. Landon's invasion of the state. They didn't think he made votes at Portland and they felt the devastating effects of Gov. Brann's politically skillful reply to the Kansas governor immediately after the Portland speech was over.

While Senator White is an able legislator, nevertheless there were many Republicans in Maine today who grieved over the downfall of Gov. Brann. Knowing that he was not a new dealer at heart, they would have been satisfied with Mr. Brann in the senate, and there is no doubt he got a large number of Republican votes by evading throughout his campaign the controversy over the new deal. Many a Republican wanted to vote for Mr. Brann, but, because of the argument that, outside the state, a Brann victory would be misconstrued as a Landon defeat, they voted a straight Republican ticket.

The detailed tabulations furnish an interesting index to America's voting inclinations in the 1936 presidential election, and, from what I was told at Bangor and what I learned about the splitting of tickets in various parts of the state, I am convinced that the Literary Digest voting and other polls will not in some states be a guide if the election is very close.

* * *

The Digest certainly predicted an overwhelming Republican victory, but the personal popularity of Gov. Brann cut down one all-important contest to a margin of around 5,000 votes out of a total of 306,000 cast.

Perhaps the best index of all was the balloting in the three contests for the house of representatives. Each of the Republicans won by margins ranging from a minimum of 17,000 to a maximum of 20,000.

What the new deal spokesmen can claim is that the high vote in the governorship contest of about 45,000 majority does not reveal a sufficiently strong tide of returning Republicanism to win other states in the east and middle west. But the Republicans, if they too, wish to be candid, might frankly admit this and perhaps say that, after all, it is only mid-September. For it is evident in Maine and in various other states there is a crusading spirit animating the Republican party which means added momentum in the next five or six weeks of the campaign.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 — First news that President Roosevelt was calling a conference of life insurance leaders came as a tip from the last place you would look—aboard Gov. Landon's campaign train, rolling through New England.

Almost simultaneously, the same tip was likewise flashed from the second most unbelievable source—aboard Col. Frank Knox's campaign train, chugging through Montana.

The twin tips arrived here together and were presented immediately to the presidential secretary. He seemed to be blinded by the light. He hemmed, hawed, finally confirmed that, on the morrow the President would meet the insurance men. That started as smart a fencing match as ever engaged an opposing presidential and vice presidential candidate. It was staged so adroitly that, in the end, there seemed to be some public doubt whether it had ever been held.

Lunge

As near as the hidden disputed fragments can be placed together, here is the story.

Mr. Roosevelt's political associates thought Col. Knox made a serious blunder in his Allentown speech when he said no life insurance policy is secure; no savings account is safe. They wanted to pounce on it in a bigger national way. Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania had threatened suit, but this did not attract much national attention. Something more was needed.

A President could not answer a vice presidential candidate, or, indeed, dignify him with notice. But more than one presidential associate saw what effective rebuttal it would be for Mr. Roosevelt to call the insurance people in and let them announce how very, very safe insurance policies are.

Luckily, there was some minor extraneous presidential business pending with the insurance companies, the question of co-operating on land surveys and such things which could easily have waited until after election.

Confidential invitations were issued and all would have been well, except the Republicans found out about it. You can have only one guess as to where their information came from. Only two groups knew about it, the insurance leaders and the Presidential coterie.

Recoil

The Republican national committee hastily purchased half an hour on the air for Col. Knox that night for what was generally expected in new deal circles to be an apology. The talk was arranged too late in the day for announcement in the afternoon papers. But the Republicans are not the only ones who can find out things they are not supposed to hear. Many a top new deal official, including the topmost, remained home all evening to hear the apology.

They were disappointed. Knox, instead, reiterated and amplified his charge. He based it on the economic grounds of inflationary uncertainty. Every insurance policy holder will get dollar for dollar due, but nobody, he said, knew what the dollar would be worth.

This just about spoiled the play. It put the accusation on the basis of an economic argument which has been advanced by many a well known economist (and disputed by many another).

The conference became a play without a plot.

Both the president and the insurers announced that policies had increased $3,000,000,000 in the last three years, but everyone agreed the figures had been published, and probably were somewhat beside the point.

Relativity

The match probably will be referred to by as many persons as there are voters. It will not be settled except by future history.

Knox has behind him the anti-new deal economists, who have long been contending that the growth of the government debt and continuing deficits will injure federal credit, and the eventful inflation from that cause or others, will depreciate the dollar. The new deal theory is that the debt can go much higher, that inflation can be avoided.

The surest answer was given by one of the insurance men, who said "an insurance policy is as safe as a government bond." No one can contest that deduction because the insurance companies are, next to the banks, the largest holders of the bonded federal bag.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Frank Scully writes me interestingly to explode many of the myths that have clung to his friend, Jim Tully, the writer. First: Tully never was a hobo. He was a road kid in the manner of Jack Dempsey, Stanley Ketchell and Jack London. He quit gypsying at 21 and has worked hard since.

Tully and Johnny Kilbane started boxing the same year. Tully's first fight in the arena was a main event, a ten-round draw in Chicago. At 23, Martin Davey, now Ohio's governor, sent Tully in command of 10 men on a tree surgery jaunt. It was Davey who really started Tully to write.

He asked him to do a piece for the company bulletin—his first effort. Tully educated himself in public libraries of the land. When he was a road kid, the first place he hit for in a strange town was the library. Later, Rupert Hughes and Mencken saw his literary possibilities.

Tully's home is of brick, set down among 100 giant eucalyptus trees in a three-acre section of Toluca Lake in California. It's a copy of George Borrow's home in England and regarded as one of the three most civilized homes in a land of magnificent mansions.

Al Jolson has been the No. 1 Lucky Boy of the race courses this season. He is the only plunger in five years to take the bookies for a ride. Which is something of an evening up process for the mammy wah-waher. During most of his professional and high earning years he has been steadily nicked—often at $50,000 a clip. Those who know, say he is the gamest of losers and the most jubilant of winners. When his nag comes under the wire first he cannot refrain from going into a dance. He has a fund salted away the bookies cannot reach—so, win or lose, he does not face old age penury. Lucky Al!

The pen and ink drawings and caricatures that seemed simplest and often amateurish in execution are most difficult. And have a background of intense study here and abroad. Those hybrid limnings of James Thurber, for instance. Or the juvenile appearing attempts of Don Herold. Also the gardyloos of T. E. Powers. Al Freuh frequently catches a caricature with just two strokes but it took him a lifetime to master this trick. Ralph Barton had similar brevity. He used to do an amazing likeness of John Drew with one quick pen stroke. Most artists suffer creative pains in their daily devoirs. Ding, I am told, spent an entire night getting the proper coil to a warped plank. H. T. Webster drew Casper Milquetoast a thousand times before he speared the proper timidity.

The most sharply etched Broadway types are cabaret chorus cuties who seep into the big alley on way to their chores at 6 p. m. Mostly slinky platinum blondes, glossily turned out by all the newest rigamarole of the cosmetic art, they are fairly aglow. Most are lispers and terribly dumb. But they don't fare so badly. Fourteen this year married Big Money.

Thingumabobs: Meredith Nicholson reads the Bible a half-hour daily for the sheer beauty of expression. Deems Taylor is seasick from the time he goes up the gang-plank until he reaches the other side. Embarrassing Moment Note: The woman treasurer of a Ladies Aid Society in a fashionable Long Island town, socked to the chin with orchids, approached the teller of the local bank the other morning with "I wish to deposit this aid money." The teller, a new one, not knowing her, understood her to say "egg money." So by the way of being pleasant he chirped "The old hens are doing pretty well this hot weather, aren't they?"

It's not enough to cleanse powder-mask out of your skin at night. You must prevent its formation during the day. The one sure way to do this is to change to Mello-glo Satin-tone Face Powder. "Oh. That's what he does is it" commented Mr Little.

"He struck me as being harmless enough" said Lawson.

That was the conclusion which he had actually come to. It struck him that it was unlikely that Mahony had learned anything from Ross and that even if he had there was little he could do except to warn the Littles and his warning would only provoke derision.

* * *

Mahony had no intention of warning the Littles of Elsa's danger. He could only too easily imagine the effect of telling Vincent Little that Lawson was planning to kidnap his niece.

The old man would gobble with indignation like a turkey. Elsa would laugh and they would at once pass on information of the warning to Lawson who would also laugh heartily and postpone his attempt on Elsa till a more favorable occasion.

He had a simple dinner at his lodgings and after dinner he changed into Billy's fancy dress. From a suitcase he took the Luger automatic pistol which he had been accustomed to carry in China and carefully oiled and cleaned it. He drove away from his lodgings in his new car at a quarter past nine and arrived at the Albert Hall just before half past.

Though the ball had not long started the huge floor was already fairly crowded with dancers in fancy dress and mask. Harlequins cardinals knights South Sea Islanders Pompadours mingled in a colorful richly dressed good humored throng. More and more people were arriving every minute and the bars were doing a roaring trade.

Mahony's luck was in. As the crowd was coming off the floor after a dance the sound of a man's laugh attracted his attention. Mahony knew that laugh. He turned and saw a tall swaggering buccaneer leading a slim Queen of Hearts in the direction of a box. In spite of her mask the Queen of Hearts was obviously Elsa Little.

For a couple of hours he loitered about noting every man with whom Elsa danced. He also noted carefully every man who passed him dressed as an Arab sheik. Among all those people in fancy dress it was a fairly common costume but he noticed two others which looked as if they had been made by the same hand as his.

Unmasking was to be a midnight and all the film stars present were to appear one by one on a platform and be presented to the audience.

At about half past eleven hanging about near the entrance to Lawson's box Mahony saw Elsa come out to dance with the Charles the Second. A couple of seconds later the Arab sheik came out alone. Seeing Mahony standing

Giants Begin Series With Their "Jinx" Foe, Brookl

DODGERS THREATEN VICTORY MARCH OF NATIONALS' LEADER

Cleveland Scores 13 3 Win Over Red Sox, Tigers Sink Athletics

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Terry [illegible] Casey Stengel [illegible] The Giants go to Flatbush town today for [illegible] of five games with their perennial hair [illegible] one jinx the Dodgers and out of the two series play may come the National league pennant.

The set up is parallel to what it was two years ago when Terry's new historic crack — Are the Dodgers still in this league? — set off a Brooklyn explosion that blew the Giants right out of National league pennant chances.

The Terry terriers at that time had a somewhat smaller lead than the 4½ game margin they are sporting over the [illegible] Cardinals today. [illegible] beat the Phillies [illegible] the Giants won two straight at the [illegible] and the Giants [illegible] the World's Series only with spectators tickets.

Things would have been [illegible] really [illegible] if the Giants had swept their last series with the Pirates but the best they could get in yesterday's doubleheader finale was an even break. Old Waite Hoyt's old wing baffled the New Yorkers in the nightcap and handed them a 13 beating. A two run rally off Cy Blanton in the fourth inning gave the Giants the opener 2 1.

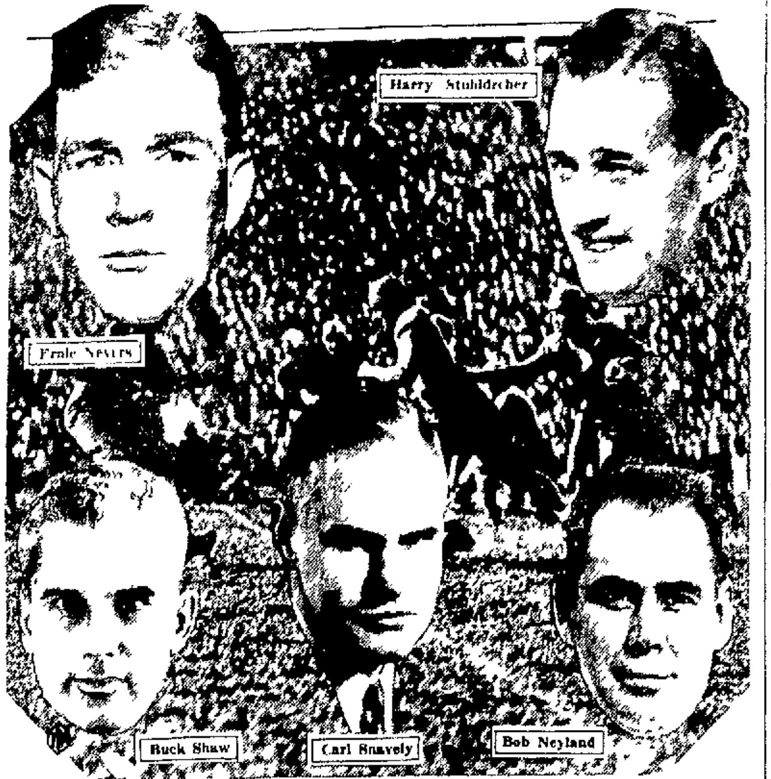
They were fortunate that the Cardinals could get no better than a split with the Phillies dropping the opener 7 3 and taking the nightcap 5 2 with Workhorse Dizzy Dean summoned for relief again.

The Cubs took both ends of a double bill from the Boston Bees 3 2 and 4 2 behind some masterful hurling by Tex Carleton and Bill Lee.

The Dodgers trampled the Cincinnati Reds in both ends of their twin bill taking the opener 7-4 with a three run rally in the eighth and walloping a pair of Red hurlers for 16 hits and a 10 2 decision in the nightcap.

The American league put on a curtailed program with the Yanks and White Sox rained out and the Browns and Senators taking a scheduled day off. Hal Trosky belted homer number 41 to lead the Indians in a 13 3 win over the Red Sox in a game cut to six innings by darkness. Elden Auker stopped the Athletics with nine hits in pitching the Tigers to a 6 2 triumph.

NEW GRID SEASON BRINGS MANY COLLEGE COACHING STAFF CHANGES



BY WALTER L JOHNS
International Illustrated News Writer

NEW YORK. A new football season brings a new crop of college gridiron aspirants—and a new crop of coaches.

A nation wide survey reveals that 100 colleges and universities have changed coaches this year. Most of the changes in coaching personnel are in smaller colleges but several of the large schools have new appointees.

The University of Wisconsin in the doldrums for some time has ousted Dr Clarence W Spears and put in one of the Immortal Four Horsemen Harry Stuhldreher for seven years a successful coach at Villanova. Spears hooked up with the University of Toledo.

Tulane Has New Coach

Cornell going through a bad season has changed coaches the veteran Gil Dobie being replaced by Carl Snavely mentor of the North Carolina team. Dobie now is at Boston college. Snavely's place at North Carolina has been taken by Ray (Bear) Wolf.

At Tulane Lowell Dawson former Tulane star replaced Ted Cox who in turn succeeded A A Exendine at Oklahoma A & M.

Bob Neyland returned to his former post at Tennessee after a year's absence replacing his former assistant Bill Britton. Clipper Smith quit Santa Clara to replace Stuhldreher at Villanova. Lawrence (Buck) Shaw assistant to Smith is now head coach at Santa Clara.

Ernie Nevers is new coach at Lafayette the former Stanford All American replacing Herb Mc McCracken. Josh Cody last year an assistant at Vanderbilt went to the University of Florida to take the place of Dutch Stanley. Frank Dobson former University of Richmond coach is new head mentor at University of Maryland. John P Smith is successor to Christy Flanagan at Duquesne.

Other Changes Reported

Judge Walter P Steffen of Chicago returns to his old post as advisory coach at Carnegie Tech. Vic Hurt took Gloomy Gus Henderson's post at Tulsa university when the school and Gus couldn't agree on a contract. William Saunders stepped in at Denver when Percy Locey resigned. Jack Croft line coach at Utah State moves up to head coach at Montana State.

Among other new coaches are Tom Conley at John Carroll university, Wilbur White at Colorado Mines, Guy Lookabaugh at Grinnell, John Levi at Haskell, Elbert Caraway at Massachusetts State, Alvin Julian at Muhlenberg, Monk Simons at Transylvania, Jimmy Aiken at Akron, Elmer Holm at Washburn, Wendell Smith at Wheaton, Branch Bocock at William Mary and Clem Crowe at Xavier.

BREWERS WIN FROM INDIANAPOLIS 2-0 IN PLAYOFF SERIES TILT

Hamlin's Hurling and Laabs Homer With One on Base Brings Victory

By The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE Sep 17—Thanks to Luke Hamlin's pitching arm and Chet Laabs' bat Milwaukee's Brewers were one up on Indianapolis today in the final American association playoff to produce an opponent for the International league victor in the Little World Series.

With Hamlin pitching another [illegible] game and Laabs doing the necessary batting Milwaukee won the opening game of the final series last night 2 to 0 before 7,684 chilled fans. Hamlin allowed only five hits. Laabs spanked out a long home run with Rudy York on base in the sixth inning accounting for all the scoring.

In the second game of the series tonight Joe Heving who defeated the Indians five consecutive times during the regular season will pitch for the league champions with Jersey Jim Turner hurling for the fourth placers.

CLEVELAND, DAYTON TEAMS SET TO PLAY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND Sept 17 The Cleveland and Dayton O entrants in the National Amateur Baseball federation tournament after a day of enforced idleness had clear weather today for their feature sandlot battle.

They are the lone undefeated entrants in the tournament in which two losses mean elimination. Rain prevented their contest late yesterday.

Cleveland after its morning game with the rival Ohio team was scheduled against Detroit which yesterday ousted Fort Wayne Ind by winning a 9 to 1 contest.

Smock Pa faces a third Ohio team Toledo which shut out Cumberland to eliminate the Maryland team. The score was 3 to 0.

CRAMER POLISHES GRID TEAM FOR FIRST GAME

With only two practice sessions remaining before the opening of the season at Delaware Saturday the Harding High football machine is being oiled and primed for the inaugural contest. Coach Carl Cramer sent the 32 candidates for the starting line up through a long and strenuous practice at Harding field last night and announced that they will see action again tonight and Friday.

Tonight's meeting was to include a long scrimmage session with the players tapering off during the rehearsal Friday evening. The meeting Friday will dwell largely on drill work and signal practice with the team brushing up on punting and passing. Game equipment will be issued Friday and the last minute details are to be ironed out.

Speculate On Starters

Fans who have been watching the daily work outs at the Harding stadium have been speculating what combination will receive Coach Cramer's starting call for the initial contest at Delaware. Forrest Sharrock captain and Clayton Harper only veterans returning from last year are expected to take a position in the forward wall.

Captain Sharrock has been working out at left end while Harper has been holding the same position at the opposite end of the line. Other possibilities for either of the end positions include Kenneth Williamson, Howard Diehl, Raymond Hudson and James Wark.

Two seniors and four juniors are vieing for the tackle posts. Bill Green and Walter Young both seniors were seen in practice at left and right tackle berths respectively. Jack Stephenson, Bill Decker, Dick Marshall and Carleton Taylor all juniors are all good probabilities for the initial call.

Mahlon Cast senior may be one of Coach Cramer's selections for a guard position to open the game at Delaware. Five others are in the group trying for the guard positions. They are Harold Stafford senior, Jack Scranton, Roy Stout, Francis Ruzzo, Gene Hoch all juniors.

Center Candidates

Bob Zachman, Paul Fick, Bill Clapsaddle and Paul Riley have all been seen at center during the weeks of preparation and which one may be elected to start is a matter of conjecture. Zachman is a senior with the other three battling for the same position all members of the junior class. Several of them will probably get their first real taste of game competition at Delaware.

Coach Cramer's backfield regardless of the combination he selects will be composed of comparatively lightweights. Light fast and deceptive work is expected of the backs. Not more than two seniors will compose the starting backfield because of the fact that only three are candidates and one will be on the sidelines as the result of an injury.

Charles Caprino trying for quarter received a hand injury Tuesday which will probably keep him on the sidelines during the first game. Caprino with Julius Chizmar and William Scott, possibilities at fullback and right half are the only seniors working in the backfield.

Johnny Williams and Bill Weston are vieing for left half. Joe Caprino may be seen in the fullback post. Glenn Wintermute and Robert Castner are additional candidates for right half. Dick Miller and Robert Weber furnished competition for Charles Caprino in his efforts to land the quarterback berth and both of them will probably enter the game against Delaware.

Ohio State Ranked As One of Strongest Football Teams in the Central States

Coach Schmidt Has at Least One Letterman for Each Post

BY WILLIAM WEEKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO [illegible] the grid machine [illegible] the central [illegible] along [illegible] football [illegible] neighborhood [illegible] have [illegible] put up with another season of [illegible] at the hands of Minnesota, Ohio State and Notre Dame.

Minnesota and Ohio State, co-champions of the Big Ten conference, face [illegible] the replacement of [illegible] who were graduated or [illegible] ineligibility [illegible] both appear to have enough talent to keep them up there another season [illegible] provided Northwestern doesn't [illegible] them.

Notre Dame [illegible] 19 lettermen [illegible] for its 9 game campaign [illegible] Michigan State and Marquette [illegible] football scheme [illegible] for [illegible] coaches.

The [illegible] of such Minnesota greats as [illegible] Seidel, George Roscoe, Sheldon (Shotgun) Beise, Dick Smith and Dale Rennebohm might wreck some elevens but at Minnesota Coach Bernie Bierman's biggest worry appears to be [illegible]. He has Sam H[illegible] to move in at quarterback where Seidel starred last fall, Rudy Gmitro for Beise's fullback post and Earl (Bud) Svendsen as Rennebohm's successor at center—along with typical Gopher talent for the other spot.

Ohio State Strong As Ever

However Bierman had less than a month to get his machine tuned up for the opening battle with the University of Washington ranked as the Pacific coast's standout on Sept. 26 at Seattle.

Ohio State while must face New York university and Pittsburgh in its first two games has 16 lettermen at least one for every position to man Francis Schmidt's highly specialized forward and lateral passes. The list includes Jumping Joe Williams one of 1935's prize sophomore backs, Capt. Merle Wendt, all Big Ten end, William Harrison (Tippy) Dye at quarterback and Inwood Smith, outstanding guard.

Thoroughly broken into Coach Lynn Waldorf's methods Northwestern has the makings of a misery-dealing eleven. For his second season in the Big Ten Waldorf will start off with 20 lettermen and a fine sophomore crop. Northwestern upset Notre Dame last year.

Michigan on Comeback Trail

Every other team in the conference with the exception of Chicago and Iowa promises to be stronger than last year. Purdue hurt by the loss of Ed Skoronski center in last midseason has 17 letter winners. Michigan slowly moving back toward the top since the disastrous 1934 campaign has 18—and its best sophomore group since 1931. Wisconsin with 19 varsity veterans [illegible] expecting a revival under Harry Stuhldreher who succeeded Dr. Clarence Wiley Spears in the Big Ten's only major coaching shift.

For the first time in five seasons Bob Zuppke dean of Big Ten coaches will have a few heavy weights on his Illinois squad.

Iowa will rely on its spectacular Negro halfback slippery Oze Simmons and 17 other lettermen. Indiana figures to be troublesome if the injury jinx doesn't attack Coach Bo McMillin again.

With Jay Berwanger as assistant coach instead of playing Chicago appears doomed to last place in the final standing. Coach Clark Shaughnessy has only 10 lettermen.

TWELVE VETERANS BACK STRENGTHENS CASE ROUGH RIDERS

Coach Ray Ride Expects To Turn Out Stronger Team Than in 1935

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, [illegible] Sept. 17.—Coach Ray Ride [illegible] Case's [illegible] of that team [illegible] the 1935 [illegible] has vision of a better eleven [illegible] drive which gets [illegible] was Sept. 26 when the Rough Riders meet Lehigh here.

Twelve lettermen are returning making it [illegible] have an experienced [illegible] every position, Ride said [illegible]

The line material is much improved over last season. The regular [illegible] Mason who played [illegible] defense game at [illegible] Rick Anderson [illegible] tackle, Albert Spobel [illegible] the last two years [illegible] Ross playing his second [illegible] guard and Charles W[illegible] right [illegible] offense [illegible] brilliant defensive [illegible] line backer.

Three promising players are battling for the center job. They are Dick Marshall, a junior [illegible] last season, John [illegible] senior and [illegible] who was shifted from fullback during spring practice.

The halfbacks offer the big problem. Teckauer, Wagner and Traxler were lost through graduation leaving a big gap.

Herman Kalal will be at the quarterback berth while Ray Mickosky last year's star will play fullback again.

Madge Is Reluctant to Inform Men of Prisoner

AS WE heard the key turn in the lock of the kitchen door with its menace of danger of our voices being heard from below Katie began a fearful [illegible]

"P[illegible] e dri[illegible]"

"Hold it Katie" Lillian commanded crisply and patted the puzzled housemaid [illegible] her terror off to the [illegible]

"We shall [illegible] everything in good time" Lillian [illegible]ed "But we can't run the risk of tipping off our unwilling guest to anything concerning our affairs"

"Oh[illegible]" Katie exclaimed contritely "Me I forgot [illegible]"

"So did we all" Lillian countered "but we'll have to remember him now Madge I'm afraid you're elected for the mean job of going down to tell our liege lords that we disobeyed their orders and as a result have captured a spitting wildcat up here who—or should I say which—I think will interest them"

Camouflages Terror

She was speaking with purposeful lightness but I guessed that the words camouflaged a very lively terror of what lay behind the appearance of the mysterious marauder whom we had captured in the act of poising his knife for a murder

"I wouldn't ask you to go" she said "I'd face the music myself but I don't want any slip up I want to be right here when Harry lamps this bird I want to see Harry's face It's a poker countenance but there are certain things I know about it And of course it's hardly fair to have Katie bearing the good news from Ghent to Aix concerning our flagrant violation of orders"

"Me I no care" Katie struck in evidently seeing in Lillian's words only a disinclination to put an extra burden upon her "I shoost as soon go down and tell dem anyting you vant"

Her tone was naively hopeful and I knew that her melodrama loving soul craved the chance to get below stairs and find out the mystery of the big coffin like basket which had been brought into the farmhouse from the big car after the driver had whispered the password which my father before he left on his secret mission had given up for use on this night From that circumstance I guessed Lillian shared my certainty that my father's twin brother was concealed in the basket

Katie Is Puzzled

That Katie however was genuinely puzzled by the appearance of a basket instead of a man we could see although I knew her native shrewdness would soon lead her to the solution of the mystery But I also knew that in Mrs Ticer's patronage she would [illegible] her eye teeth [illegible]

I could not see Lillian's eyes as she answered [illegible] told me that they [illegible] sympathetic comprehension as well as mine

"We know you're willing to do anything Katie" she said "but just now I want you to [illegible] and [illegible] this lad we tied up I think I'll [illegible] get a flashlight and turn it on him He may [illegible] a [illegible] or two about [illegible]ing him [illegible] out of [illegible]"

"There's one I'm sure in the [illegible] pocket of the couch hammock" I said miserably conscious that my voice was not quite steady

"Me I get eet" Katie said and moved swiftly toward the hammock when Lillian put an abrupt question to me

"What's the matter?" she said "You're surely not dreading to see those lads of ours are you?"

Indeed no I answered truthfully concerning her husband but mendaciously concerning my own I could think of a hundred things I would rather do than face Dicky and tell him that I had gone out on the balcony in strict violation of orders given expressly for my protection and Lillian's

"I'm not so sure" she said doubtfully and I was glad when Katie created a diversion as she turned on the flashlight whose location I had given her

"Here dot flashlight" she said handing it to Lillian who walked with it to the corner where we had tied the midnight marauder and flashed it down upon him

"Quick Madge" she said "get those men up here pronto Katie lend me a hand here This bird has almost worked himself loose"

G.O.P. Invites Prosecution In Tax Placard Argument

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO Sept 17—The Republican national committee in an unsigned statement issued last night said it would welcome a few prosecutions instead of just intimidation propaganda designed to scare people to stop them from talking about high taxes imposed by the new deal

Replying to Attorney General Homer S Cummings warnings to merchants against displaying what he termed politically inspired placards purporting to show how prices are affected by direct federal taxes the committee's statement said

Attempts of the department of justice to intimidate butchers grocers and little retailers who want to know how much hidden tax they are paying on the necessities of life are easy to understand

Charge Deception

Naturally the new deal does not want the housewife or the workingman to find out how much tax they are paying for Roosevelt waste and extravagance The new deal wants them to believe the wicked rich are paying all the taxes

This storm of complaints which has reached the department of justice as described in one Washington dispatch is rather amusing for several reasons

In the first place the storm is rather premature On Sept 14 the day the storm reached Washington only a handful of these much discussed blackboards had been sent out and only one of them actually displayed So the very active new dealers certainly did an interesting poll of their membership to develop this storm

In the second place the law which the department of justice is now trying to use to prevent the poor and middle class people of this country from finding out what taxes they are really paying does not impose any penalty if the statement as to the amount of tax is accurate

Issue Challenge

The committee's statement concluded with the challenge

The Republican national committee will welcome a few prosecutions instead of just intimidating propaganda designed to scare people to stop them from talking about high taxes imposed by the new deal

The statement said the committee would like to know why the department of justice issues this threat through the verbal statements to newspaper men instead of fearlessly prosecuting some one accused of violating the law

Can it be that the department of justice is afraid that if it brought such a suit the effect would be to rivet the attention of the country on the fact that our citizens who buy meat and groceries are actually paying hidden taxes? the statement asked

It all smacks with politics intermingled with justice in the interest of the new deal

What is the department of justice going to do to Gov Alf M Landon? At Buffalo he said that people paid 2 cents taxes on every loaf of bread

Refers to Landon

Can they dig up a law to punish Gov Landon for saying

We cannot buy a stitch of clothing without the government taking in taxes a part of the money we pay out

Cummings said protests have been received from various parts of the country including Illinois Indiana and Iowa They claim that some merchants have been putting up placards indicating what part of a price is due to federal taxation

I sincerely hope that partisan zeal will not lead anyone to violate federal statutes It would be embarrassing all around and the justice department certainly does not want to be drawn into anything with partisan significance"

Cummings said that Section 1127 of the federal [illegible] enacted [illegible] Democratic congress in [illegible] and reenacted by a Republican congress in 192[illegible] provides a fine [illegible] one year in jail or both [illegible] convicted of making [illegible] in connection with the [illegible] paid [illegible] of federal tax False statements also were forbidden
